

Christie Hospital NHS Foundation Trust

Oak Road Development, Security Innovation

Case Study

Background

Christie Hospital NHS Foundation Trust is a specialist cancer treatment centre located in Withington, Manchester. It is one of the largest cancer centres in Europe and provides radiotherapy and chemotherapy services to patients primarily living in Greater Manchester and Cheshire. Due to its specialist nature it also provides treatment for patients across the country.

The Oak Road Development looks to provide a significant increase in the capacity to deliver service chemotherapy treatment, expand the early phase clinical trials unit and also to provide a new private patient unit.

Interserve is currently on site delivering the £35m project, delivering ahead of programme and on budget.

Security Innovation

The site for the new Oak Road development sits adjacent to the main entrance of the Hospital. As such the site is very close to public access to the building and Interserve looked to improve site security and access.

The system consists of a security cabin integrated into the hoarding. A single turnstile operated by a hand recognition system allows access to the site for all those operatives with a four digit pin.

A security guard also sits in the cabin office, where they can monitor the turnstile.

The system not only provides enhanced security but also has further benefits:

- Hand recognition software allows close monitoring of all operatives on site

- The system generates a register of operatives on site which can be used during an emergency evacuation
- The system can help to agree time related activities on site as there is an accurate record of hours held electronically
- It provides a record of man hours per day / week / month for health and safety records
- It provides a single point of access to site which is strictly controlled
- No supply chain member can access the site without an induction in which they are issued a 4 digit pin
- Deliveries to site can be monitored and booked in preventing delivery vehicles blocking public access
